How it Works

All correspondence with inmates would be channeled through a post office box assuring total privacy and confidentiality of the writer's personal address. The writer's names are sent to A.A.W.S. Corrections desk in New York where it will be forwarded to an inmate who (had requested correspondence) with your name and the local (So Cal) P.O. box return address. When the inmate letter arrives at P.O. box it is placed (intact and sealed) in another envelope and forwarded to you. This will insure complete anonymity of your personal address
